

A diagram showing a bidirectional connection between a front panel (left) and a back panel (right). The front panel has a large rectangular display area and two small square buttons at the bottom. The back panel is a solid black rectangle. A double-headed arrow with three dots in the middle connects the two panels.

558